

Chana Sweetbaum
Development Manager

A general contractor by background with experience in New York for over 10 years, Chana was President and Founder of her own design and build residential contracting company, Fox Force Five Construction from 2010, focusing on high end residential and commercial projects. Prior to that she was at Cross Architecture, where she helped transform the practice to an integrated design and build firm. Chana specializes in Passive Haus construction with the goal of creating net zero, energy efficient buildings.

Chana has a Bachelors degree from Florida International University. She is a licensed General Contractor and has worked on Julian Schnabel's building in the West Village, Olatz Schnabel's townhouse in TriBeca, James Turrell's kitchen in Gramercy Park, Lawrence Weiner's townhouse in West Village, the newly opened Beekman Hotel in Downtown Manhattan, and multiple boutique retail shops for Adidas and is a recent Graduate of DIT, in Property Economics.